Brief Details. The Devil is in the details so pay close attention. We have 2 main moose areas. 1 is along the rivers where we use the jet boats. To hunt along the rivers using jet boats, you will / must pick up a free river corridor ALASKA MOOSE registration permit (RM587) "IN PERSON" at Fish and Game "IN DILLINGHAM" between July 15 and Sept. 4, Monday through Friday, 8AM - 5PM. For 2010 that is 9/3 by 5pm. No exceptions! So don't ask. Seventy-five permits are available. They have never come close to running out. Using the jet boats along the river is where we have taken most of the moose in the past. If you are physically limited, this is where you want to hunt. We take the boat from the base camp to where we will hunt for the day. Then we get out of the boat, hike nearby calling and spotting for moose. There are a few places where we can use the boats outside of the moose permit area, but they are limited and access depends on water levels. All moose camps along the river have Free World Class Fishing. Our second area is everywhere else outside the permit area. Typically they are fly in only camps where you must be in shape and able to walk to hunt. These camps are typically on low ridges surrounded by open tundra and broken spruce in the uplands. Good visibility allows more spot and stalk than on the river and we always do our long range moose calls. There are small creeks with moose vegetation nearby to watch and to fish. Hunters in these non permit areas can fly directly to Koliganek from Anchorage and save time and money. Your arrival Date is Sept. 3rd and departure date is Sept 16th for moose only hunters.

Moose and Brown Bear Combination Hunts. NEW DEAL! Brown bear season now opens Sept. 1 before moose season. The earlier season means more bears will still be feeding on massive salmon runs up and down the river. We have set up tree stands and ground blinds at feeding areas with trails to nearby spike camps so we can hunt early and late and not have to run the boat. The daylight hours are longer. Plus we will have moose gut piles or meat poles to hunt. With the jet boats, float hunting and shooting from the boat is a viable option. This is a time when moose and bears live close together because the bears have plenty of fish. Look at the combination hunt as a standard moose hunt with free bear hunting days and a cheap bear kill fee. Or look at it as a longer brown bear hunt with a cheap kill fee on moose. Either way it is a great deal. The Board of Game made it clear; they want more bears killed when they opened bear season before moose season! And, this is a “Can’t say no. Can’t go wrong deal!”

Other Costs: We provide all food, gas, camps, cots, pads, land use fees, etc ... and provide transportation from Koliganek to camp and back. APGS charges $75 to seal a brown bear or a wolf at Fish and Game, which must be done before leaving the state. APGS charges a maximum of $100 to handle meat donations. You pay for License and Tag/s, airfare and hotel between home and Koliganek; trophy and meat shipping from Koliganek; alcohol and game bags (you bring or buy). You bring, or mail ahead, your own personal hunting gear, including weapons (except for pistols and ammo) to our guy in Koliganek. Meat may be donated in Koliganek. Meat and trophies can be frozen and shipped from Dillingham to Anchorage for processing or sent home. You can process your own in Dillingham if you make time. It will be much cheaper to split the antlers for shipping.

Master Guide Smokey Don Duncan is a 35 year Alaskan in the hunting business since 1987. Enjoy the excellence of experience. My average guide has 8+ years hunting moose and brown bear in this area. The moose and moose & bear combination price is the best deal you will find anywhere when you consider the amount of equipment (boats, planes, camps) logistical capabilities, guide experience, hunting area, success rate and hard work we put in before, during and after your hunt. The web site has more detailed honest information and links to our hunting videos. You can send $8 for our 2 hour moose and bear hunting video.
